WEDNESDAY ..... OCTOBER 27, 1875.

The Dispatch of To-day. The large edition of yesterday's Dispatch being totally insufficient to supply the demand, we this morning issue another doublesheet, in which we reproduce three pages of the same matter which was contained in that edition-namely, the record of the life and services of Jackson, the representation of the statue, and the score of the music sung yes-

The address of the Rev. M. D. Hoge, D. D., the Cierro of our Virginia pulpit (if we cal stumpers), is worthy of a place in the years been calling upon Congress to make scarcely ever consiled never excelled archives of the State as well as in the library the rate of legal interest uniform all over the With generous rivalry with the means of every Virginian. This address, too, is in our double sheet.

Persons desiring copies of this day's issue either for preservation or for transmission to their triends elsewhere would do well to supply themselves early this morning.

The Celebration-

-of the unveiling of the Jackson statue yesterday was every way successful. The weather favored it. The sun was brilliant and the gentle breezes cooled the temperature and refreshed the marchers in their long and fatiguing procession. Everybody was joyous. The line of the procession was the longest ever beheld in this city, and all in all ring pageants ever known in the country.

Our industrious and watchful reporters bave sketched the whole affair most graphically, and to their reports we refer the reader. The honors of the day were altogether ereditable to the State and to all who took part in it, and worthy of the immortal hero in whose memory all was done-that hero who in some respects might be called matchless. He now has his fame complete and remitted to posterity along with the high tribute to the people who lived in his day that they had the judgment and the generous impulses to appreciate his great merits and | Eliot expressing thanks for the honor, and to honor them properly.

If there is an interest in the State more than any other that cannot get along without order, and the security of that peace and decorum that come from good government, it is that of agriculture. We behold the President of the Agricultural Society of the State openly resisting the party through which such government can alone be hoped for. He stands here in Richmond as the aider and abettor of soreheads and disappointed persons (himself amongst the number) as a candidate for bolters to unite upon, with no earthly chance of election save through the votes of that incompetent element which may hold the balance of power wherever the Conservative party is divided.

Richmond's example is great in the State. The number of independent candidates has largely increased in different sections of the State, and we observe everywhere that these Independents are quoting the example of of Virginia in Louisa county, and, after disopen resistance to conservatism in Richmond as an apology for their conduct. KNIGHT and STARKE are their apostles, and they only recho the cries of "rings" and "frauds," which have here been poured out on the wings of the winds. As is the case here, there is nowhere any good reason for such appeals against the party; and if there were, they would soon be hushed if the number of Radical votes were too few to justify resistance. In this city the Conservative committee bave scattered these cries to the four winds so effectually that it is amazing to hear them repeated by any honest gen leman. He could only adhere to them through blinded judgment and by taking counsel from his passions rather than his sense of justice. We tell the people everywhere where we car be heard that the strife in Richmond is sowing the seeds of discord broadcast over the State. The welfare of the Commonwealth demands peace and unity in the Conservative party, and we implore Conservatives everywhere to close up ranks and gallantly resist all efforts to impair the strength and power of this great party, which is now preserving the public dignity and order, and fostering every interest of the State, public

Grand Conservative Rally. The people will have a grand Conservasive rally to-night in front of Ford's Hotel. There will be addresses from Senators John-STON and WITHERS, General JAMES A. WALKER of the Stonewall brigade, ex-Governor LETCHER, General FITZHUGH LEE, Major

Ex-Governor WALKER will preside. It will be an enthusiastic meeting; and the orators are men who cannot fail to arouse up the incidents of the inauguration of Jackthe spirit of conservatism. The meeting son's statue : will be a banding together of brothers who fight for Virginia against the hosts that are warring against the best interests of the

JOHN W. DANIEL, and others.

The Second of November. And now the Richmond Whig's good geis its voice. Talk thus always, and all would | mond. And voluntary, as it was, it is deembe well. Hear the Whig of yesterday:

"A week from to-day and the 2d of November will have come: the election for the Legislature will be at hand; the voice of Virginia will be raised will have come: the election for the Legislaturs will be at hand; the voice of Virginia will be raised a; in to declare to the country and to the world either that she still stands unswerving in her fidelity to the principles of her own Conservative party, or that, at last, she is loosening her hold upon those principles, and, on the very verge of a national trimph. relaxing her efforts in the great cause of the Constitution she has so persistently upheld. The Conservatives in every county in the state have a high and heavy responsibility upon them. Every vote in the party should be polled. No man wholovos Virginia should fail to participate in this election if he is legally qualified to participate in it. The political battles the several States are fighting now are preparatory to the grand grapple between the Radical party and the Democratic-Conservative party in their struggle for the presidercy a year from now. Virginia must do her duty now that she may do it then. She must be true to herself. She must make her Conservative majority on the 2d of Novem'ter strong enough to strengthen the hopes of her friends and the fears of her enemies ig the North. If every Conservative voter will determine to cast his vote all will be well."

Oh, yes, Iriends, in God's name, give us

Oh, yes, friends, in God's name, give us the full Conservative vote for the nominees. Divide the party and the moral effect will be to the advantage of the Republican party and assist them to elect a President next year. Oh! let it not be so.

Newspaper Change.

It is equounced in yesterday's Enquirer that that paper has been sold and transferred to Meekis. M. P. HANDY, JAMES H. BRALS. Jr., and CHARLES J. JONES. Mr. HANDY IS well known as a journalist in this community, and his colleagues are gentlemen of extensive experience in the most enterprising and prominent newspaper establishments at the North. The new editors did not assume the control of yesterday's paper, but the control of yesterday's paper, but the second of yesterday's paper, but the yesterday yesterd paper was passed over to them, and they will have their fingers in this morning's paper, and will direct and control it for the future. We say Mr. Handy is well known in this community, and we add that his newspaperial abilities are here highly appreciated. His association with the two gentlemen named as his partners is a commendation for them in this community. The brief card put forth by the editors yesterday promises that the Enquirer will remain Couservative but independent in spirit. The purpose of the editors they avow to be to give the public a "first-class newspaper"; and this, judging from their knowledge and experience, we should think they will succced in doing.

IMPORTANT .- In the hurry of these times to not forget that the Supreme Court of the United States has put an end to all foolish-State laws on the subject of usury-that is, of the report be true which appeared in the papers yesterday, stating that that highest of good to the farmers of the State. The agriour judicial tribunals had decided that under culturists of the State came out of the war. the national banking law nothing but the horses or cattle, and not enough of agriculexcess over legal interest was forfeited in tural implements to successfully meet their case of usury. We trust that this was the requirements. With labor disorganized and decision of the court. We have for several unreliable, the farmers throughout the State United States. We shall say more on the at their command they aimed to have subject when we have more room.

IMPORTANT DECISION .- Philadelphia, Oc. Court, in the case of the Adams Express. restrain the defendants from carrying on the express business, the court to-day sustained the demurrer to the bill upon the ground that it did not aver the express company or the stockholders who compose it to be citizens of a State other than Pennsylvania-an averment necessary to give this court jurisdiction of the cause.

[Important, very.]

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT DECISIONS .it was one of the most brilliant and soul-stir Decisions were rendered Monday affirming the judgment in Wilmington and Weldon Railroad vs. King, sustaining the validity of a contract in Confederate currency. Semmes vs. United States, sustaining proceedings in confiscation and holding that pardon cannot restore rights to property se'zed, condemned, and sold in the exercise of the sovereign's belligerant rights.

A stupid boox which has been the round of the press attributing to Carlyle a boorish retusal of the degree of LL, D. conferred upon him by Harvard College has been excloded by President Eliot. Mr. Carlyle did not utter the stuff attributed to him, but on the contrary wrote a letter to President intimating that he would accept it formally when received.

Some idea of the difficulty of reporting Mr. Moody verbatim may be gathered from the fact that one of the Tribune's swiftes enographers yesterday took down from his os 2,200 words in ten minutes by the watch. This is at a rate four times as rapid as that of Mr. Evarts, and a third faster than that of Mr. Beecher, two of the most difficult of alking would fill five columns of the Tribune. - New York Tribune, 25th.

Returns from the Colorado election indicate that the Republicans have carried the l'erritory, and that they will have a majority in the Constitutional Convention.

(Communicated.) Conservative Meeting in Louisa.

A meeting was held at Danne's store on a urday the 23d day of October, 1875, in relation to Mr. Henry J. Wale, independent onservative candidate for the Legislature the following letter was addressed Louisa county, Va., October 23, 1875.

To Henry J. Wale, Esq :

Dear Sir,-A meeting was called by the friends of yours to day at Danne's store to consider the propriety of your remaining a candidate in the present contest for the Legislature, and after consulting together freely we have come to the following conclusion: As there are nominees by each party, and it is asserted by some of your enemies that by your remaining a candidate that it is likely you will bring about defeat on the Conservative party, it is resolved that we respectfully request you to withdraw your name from the canvass, to bring about harmony in the Conservative party. We firmly believe that if justice had been done you that you would have received the nomination from the Conservative party. It is also requested that you give us a reply as soon as possible. And it is also agreed that if you see proper not to resign that with the exception of some of us whose hands are ted we will give you our hearty support : and those whose hands are tied will do all we can bonorably to get you elected.

Carried unanimously. CHARLES BARFETT, Chairman. James H. Ellis, Secretary.

REPLY OF MR. WALE. To Charles Barret, Chairman, and James

H. Ellis, Secretary: Gentlemen,-Your communication of the 28d instant has been received and contents gerators, stoves, &c. noted. I am always willing to be governed by the wishes of my true friends, and will always attractive, has this year additions say in reply to your letter that I do now which will make it of unusual interest to the withdraw my name from the canvass and leave my friends to set as they may think best. Very respectfully,

Patriotism of Mechanics.

The following letters show the patriotism and liberality of our mechanics, and should be read and remembered by all who treasure RICHMOND, October 25, 1875.

Editors of the Dispatch : As an instance of noble generosity I enclose you a letter received from Mr. Blankenship, of the Old Deminion Iron- and Nail-Works, enclosing a check for the contributions of their employes at B lle Isle. This subscription was in response to a notice posted at the works to the ffect that any connius speaks. How salutary and comforting tributions could be sent to the office in Riched proper by the committee to ask you to g've it a place in your valuable columns.

Very respectfully, John B. Purcell, Treasurer. RICHMOND, VA., October 22, 1875.

Captain John B. Purcell, Treasurer " Jackson Statue Fund :" Dear Sir,- Enclosed find check for ninetythree dollars and twenty-five cents, amount contributed by the operatives of the Old Dominion Iron- and Nail-Works, on Belle Isle. The amount, liberal as it is, was greatly contracted by the unfortunate accident to James Welsh, it being the custom among the men to aid their suffering fellows.

Very truly yours, R. E. BLANKENSHIP.

PIRST DAY.

THE BEST EXHIBITION SINCE THE WAR-ATTENDANCE NOT LARGE_PRO-GRAMME FOR TC-DAY.

Since our notice of yesterday was written meny articles have been added to every department, making this the best exhibition the Society has had since the war. The affairs of the Society have generally been so managed as to give satisfaction to all parties concerned-exhibitors as well as visitorswithout money and without codit, with few the best of everything needed for their use. This Society came forward with the wreck of its fortunes and did all in its power to aid them by having brought tober 25.-In the United States District together at the close of each year the best not only of what the farmer raised, but the Company vs. the Philadelphia and Reading best stock, horses, implements, &c., &c.; and Railroad Company, a proceeding in equity fo yesterday the scene on the grounds testified with what success. Never before has there been exhibited so much that is useful, so much labor-saving machinery, intended to benefit the agricultural classes and to render the labor of the farm, in skilful hands, easier than with the articles formerly in use.

In addition to what we wrote on yesterday, and to enter a little more into detail, we noticed that in FLORAL HALL both Mr. John Morton and Mr. John Laird have done credit to their skill as florists and successful propagators of flowers. Mr. Morton's exhibition of flowers will compare favorably with any ever before made in this hall. His specimens of flowers, consisting of wreaths, boxes, archors, baskets of curious and unique patterns, and his large collection of colcus, begonias, sage, dablias, juchsias, and other blooming and pot plants, are alone well worth a visit.

Mr. Laird, in addition to several beautiful rustic banging-baskets, and a wire framework of growing plants, very elegant and asty, has a rare and splendid collection of cut flowers made up into crosses, wreaths, anchors, and of every conceivable design. They both bave fice specimens of femerics. which have recently become so popular.

we find a very large collection of vegetables and of the very finest quality. The display consists of cabbages, pumpkins, squashes, potatoes (Irish and sweet), egg plants, turnips, encumbers (some of them two feet long), carrots, &c., &c., many of them as large as we have ever seen. On this floor of the Grand Pavilion are to speakers to report. An hour of such rapid be found also the sewing-machines of the different patents and makes, all operated by kilful experts, and make under their manipulations a source of never-ceasing wonder o those unacquainted with their power. Here, too, the Western Union Telegraph

Company have an instrument and an operator for receiving and sending messages, and one or more of the new type-setters. On this floor, too, are very fine displays of barness, saddlery, &c., by Messrs. J. H. Dickerson & Bro., Figg & Rider, and S. S. ottrell & Co. Messrs, J. W. Randolph & English have here specimens of their work, and a fine collection of stationery, & ... &c. Mr. Richard Adam shows specimens of his bread, cakes, crackers, &c., and both be fifty feet below the bed of the sea. It wil and Mr. D. Columbus exhibit candies, cofectioneries, &c. On the UPPER FLOOR of the building the Charlottesville Woollen Mills have twenty-two pieces of their diagopals, doeskins, and fancy cassimeres and cheviots. These goods are unequalled in quality by any made in this country, and being purely a Virginia manufacture are much sought after, and orders always ahead attest their popularity. The Manchester Cotton Mills have here also specimens of their goods, consisting of drilling, shirting, sheeting, warp, &c. These goods are equal in quality and texture to any of their class manufactured in this country. The array of millinery goods by Messrs.

Macmurdo & Redford, Mrs. M. E. Kull, Mrs. H. M. Coghill, and others, is very good, and shows the taste which the ladies exhibit in the making up of their toilets. In the Messrs. Harker & Co. have a sample of their boiler fluid, and also exhibit curious specimens of incrustations which had been removed by its use.

IN THE ANIMAL DEPARTMENT the first to attract attention is a fine lot of sheep of "Oxfordshire Downs" breed, recently imported, and now exhibited by T. S Cooper; also, two bucks, "Improved Lincoloshire," which are very fine. There are also a number of Merinos, exhibited by Mr.

Bradford. In the swine department will be found a number of very five Essex and Berkshires, some of them just imported from England. In our notice of yesterday we stated that the exhibition of horses was not as large as usual, but the arrivals since then bave filled up every vacant stall, and now the exhibition is not only the largest but the best in this department which we have had of late years. Amougst them will be found some cf Colonel Doswell's finest celebrated race-stock Chandler, Saunders, Palmer, DeJarnette, and others exhibit fine throughbred and saddle horses. McCaull, and Smith, and many others, bave fast trotters; and the exhibit tion of broodmares and colts is excellent AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS. Messrs. H. M. Smith & Co. bave a very large and varied exhibition of farm imple mente, wagons, and machinery; amongs them ploughs and harrows of new and appa rently much improved patents; and many other implements which will be eagerly and closely scrutinized by our intelligent firmers.

The Londoun County Agricultura Fair.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] LOUDOUN COUNTY, October 23, 1875. Your "special" has kept you well posted s to the progress of the Loudoun Agricultural Fair, held in Leesburg this week; and it only remains to sum up the result. Financially, it has been a great success; the weather as good as if ordered for the occasion, and the crowd each day very large, but so orderly that nothing occurred to mar its pleasure, though the reckless driving of two men in a light wagon came near occasioning a serious accident. They ran into a buggy, n which were seated two ladies, overturning t and throwing both out, one under the ve hicle; but fortunately with no injury to either. The display of stock was large and uniformly good, showing that our farmers are aiming to secure the best and most profitable breeds to raise from, though there were few conspicuously fine animals exhibited. But the fruits of this most prolific season were to be seen on every side, and the earth brought forth her increase in the pumpkin weighing one hundred and eighty pounds, the mammoth vegetables of every kind, the rosy apples and golden pears; but most noticeable in the wonderful of ten acres of corn which gave Mr. William Benton a premium of twenty five dollars-un accuratelysurveyed average acre measured out seventeen and two-third barrels of good corn in the ear and two-thirds of a barrel additional, not so good; from the same acre was go thered a dezen cart-loads of pumpkins and two bushels of shelled beans-and stis the yield of average Loudoun land-though we must admit of more than average farming.
